BRIDES AT NIAGARA.

A correspondent writing from Niagara Falls, says: "Shortly after breakfast yesterday morning I strolled out from the Clifton to the edge of the Horseshoe Fall to watch a log that had caught in the back-edges, and was slowly making its way again to the verge of the chasm. Just to the left of me, and looking down on one of the most majestic and awful views that the place affords, was the inevitable couple, his arm about her waist and his other hand in hers. He was close beside me, and his professional monotone how, in the cool gray light of a morning long ago, a beautiful, but unfortunate girl walked quietly put to the edge of the rock, stood there for a moment with the rock tossing the white folds of her night-gown and the tangled tresses of her disheveled hair, and then leaped with the strength of despair clear out into the void beyond, and disappeared in the hell of boiling waters at the foot of the fall. There was a moment's pause as the story ended, but no doubt as to what should follow—it was foreordained from the first—and the two months came together with the usual chirrup and the usual blush. I turned away in sadness and passed on. But perhaps the most amusing spectacle of this hysterical Mecca may be witnessed in the corridors of any of the great hotels, from 9:30 to 11:30 of any evening during the season. Go early, so as to be in time; ascend to about the third floor, and take up your post of observation in some convenient embrasure—say in the window at the end of the hall. The hour will hardly have struck when after door will open in quick succession, and groom after groom emerge speaking from its closing portal, give a quick glance over his shoulder, and then walk leisurely up and down with a don't care a—expression on his face that is indecibly ludicrous. One moment he simper shamelessly at his fellow sufferers who pass him in their march, and another glares savagely at the carpet, the walls, and the ceiling, as if spoiling for a fight. But all the time he is looking anxiously at his watch until a half hour has passed slowly away, when he steals hastily back to his door, knocks, and enters, where necessity compels us to leave him. The explanation is simple—he has been sent out while the young and inexperienced madam disrobes herself. He is ashamed to go down stairs, and so he watches out the vigil in the hall.

On one joyful and never-to-be-forgotten occasion—the first of the many times that I have sought to console myself for the woes of bachelorhood by this pitiable sight—I was called in to assist at the reunion after the half hour had elapsed. A groom, bigger and madder than the average, had hardly re-entered his nuptial chamber, when he re-appeared with direct alarm and consternation depicted in his countenance. His room was the end one in the hall and my face the first one to meet his agonized glance.

"Are you one of the hotel man?" he gasped. "I am, sir," I replied, with that air of truthfulness that characterized the descendants of George Washington.

"Well, sir, my wife has gone, and I'll have her, sir, if I search every room in your cursed old shanty."

In vain I sought to console the agitated youth and check the current of profanity that coursed with Niagara's own rush and roar from his trembling lips. In vain I assured him that it was not customary for wives to run away so early to the room of a quivering, her bed and board before the expiration of the honeymoon. It was useless—he would not be comforted—till finally, purely out of the philanthropy of an unselfish heart, I suggested that he let me assist him in examining his room for traces of the missing bride. He at once assented, and threw open the door.

I entered with voiceless reverence. No human beings but ourselves were visible. In the corner, piled upon a chair, were the ordinary articles of woman's apparel, the smaller and more mysterious garments carefully hidden under the larger. In the bed was a mock form, composed of a pillow and a flannel shirt, which the wrath of the alarmed husband had ruthlessly and immediately exposed. I took in the situation in a glance. There was evidently nothing under the bed—that is, nothing of any consequence—for it came too near the floor. There were no closets in the room, no other doors, and nothing behind which one could hide. There was, however, what the French call a bouffant, with shelves at the top and folding doors at the bottom. I guessed the thing in my mind's eye, and concluded there was just room enough for a flexible little woman without much clothing to squeeze in there. All this was but the work of an instant's observation, and then I spoke with my mouth sharply:

"Young man, you have made an ass of yourself. Go to that sideboard and find her."

Without waiting for me to hide my blushes behind the door, he opened the bouffant with a bound, and there, nestled amid a cloud of fluffy white, and covered with laughter and blushes, was the prettiest little rosebud of a face that ever gleamed out of lace and linen. Sadly and remorsefully I passed out of the chamber door, leaving the rosebud to his fate. Let us hope that the poor little woman held her own.

To raise watermelons without seeds, the following plan has been successfully adopted by a planter in Caddo Parish, La. After the vine is about two feet long, cover the vine at a point taken root where it is covered, divide the vine between the old and new root, and the result will be that the melons will be seedless.

A man who drove through a camp of grasshoppers near Fort Dodge, Iowa, recently, declares that they covered a square half mile of ground, and formed a living, squirming, wriggling mass, over three inches thick on the average. Wherever they camp vegetation is totally destroyed.

"Straw jewelry" is something new. It comes from Niagara; it can be purchased from those imitative Modes who infest that locality. The earrings are small baskets, stars, daggers, etc., and there is a funny kind of bracelet, like stripes of a cane-bottom chair.

DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

Nearly all diseases originate from Indigestion and Torpidity of the Liver, and relief is always anxiously sought after. If the Liver is Regulated in its action, health is almost invariably secured. Want of action in the Liver causes Headache, Constipation, Jaundice, Pain in the Shoulders, Cough, Chills, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, bad taste in the mouth, bilious attacks, palpitation of the heart, depression of spirits, or the blues, and a hundred other symptoms, for which Simmons' Liver Regulator is the best remedy that has ever been discovered. Its action is perfectly healthy, and being a simple vegetable compound, can do no injury in any quantities that it may be taken. It is harmless in every way; it has been used for FORTY YEARS, and hundreds of the good and great from all parts of the country will vouch for its being the purest and best.

SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR, OR MEDICINE.
Is harmless. Is no drastic violent medicine. Is sure to cure if taken regularly. Is no intoxicating beverage. Is a faultless family medicine. Is the cheapest medicine in the world. Is given with safety and the happiest results to the most delicate infant. Does not interfere with business. Does not disarrange the system. Takes the place of Quinine and Bitters of every kind. Contains the simplest and best remedies. FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

The undersigned has leased this fine Hotel,
and will open it for the reception of guests on the 1st of July, 1874.
It is a large and handsome house of 25 rooms;
the parlor, dining room and chambers are large
and airy, and furnished in good style.
Middleburg is one of the prettiest and most healthy towns in Piedmont Virginia. It is situated in Loudoun county, 40 miles from Washington city, 16 miles from Leesburg, and 8 miles from the Plains station, O. & A. M. R. R., from which two points there are daily stages
over well graded turnpike roads.
A MINERAL SPRING near the town has cured many cases of Dyspepsia, and is pronounced by the physicians of this section to be equal to any water in the State for this and kindred diseases.
The house will be kept in the best style, and every effort will be made to give entire satisfaction, and the charges will be moderate.
A LIVERY STABLE and BAK will be attached, and the Bar will be furnished with the best Wines, Liquors, Cigars, &c., that can be procured in the country.
